Raising Expectations of Achievement (REACH)

The initial purpose of REACH, Raising Expectations of Student Achievement, was to improve the college completion rate for male students of color that are enrolled at the college. A mentor component was instituted to the organization where faculty/staff mentors are assigned a particular group of male students. They continue to build the mentor-mentee relationship both during the bi-weekly sessions as well as outside of this designated group time. The program is active at all three main campus locations: Macon, Milledgeville, and Warner Robins. There are bi-weekly Student Sessions held at all campuses, led by the Lead Mentors.
